THE TEXTILE MACHINERY EXHIBITION

held in Grand Central Palace New York City April 29 to May 11 1918 brought together a large number of cotton mill officials; the annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers held jointly with the annual meeting of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association at the Biltmore Hotel May 1, 2 and 3 added interest to the first week.

Representative exhibits were made by the most of the Cotton Machinery and by some of the Woolen Machinery manufacturers. We missed many of the mill superintendents, overseers and inside people who are usually present at the exhibitions at Boston and at Greenville and regretted that New York did not prove to meet their conditions.

Our illustrations give a little idea of our exhibit. Unfortunately the architecture of the Grand Central Palace does not lend itself to first class interior views.

NORTHROP LOOMS NEVER STOP

for filling replenishment; they also may be operated without weavers during the noon hour and a similar length of time morning or night so that a product of over 100 per cent. based upon continuous operation of the looms for regular mill hours may easily be obtained.

OUR WAR CONDITIONS

call for maximum product per loom with minimum number of weavers per weave-room.

THE NORTHROP LOOM
